Dewey Commission Is for Higher Wage For Older Teachers

Bair Says $2,400 Would Be Too Much for Those Just Beginning Their Careers

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 29 (AP)—Governor Dewey's commission on education believes a "higher maximum" for experienced teachers "rather than the $2,400 minimum would be 'more just,'" says a State Education Department official.

Dr. Fred H. Bair, department executive assistant, also told the League of Women Voters' legislative conference last night that "outside influences on teachers have greatly damaged the structure of education."

The commission feels that when the inflation spiral is ended, such a salary would be too much for young girls just out of college. Bair said of the $2,400 annual minimum sought by the State Teachers' Association and other groups.

"A higher maximum for experienced teachers would be more just," he said, "but it would emphasize recognition of those who have spent many years in the profession," he added.

Bair defended the recently enacted legislation providing a $300 pay increase and $2,000 minimum, explaining that it was an emergency measure not intended to give adequate relief.

The governor's commission is working on a permanent pay raise program for teachers.

Commenting on what he termed "outside influences" on teachers, Bair added:

"Some interests have placed pressure on teachers to emphasize 'individualism.' Others have sold them on the advantages of organized labor. A better influence would be to teach them to be good American citizens."

Accident Unexplained

Shannon Airport, Erie, Jan. 29 (AP)—The crash of the T.W.A. Constellation "Star of Cairo" which killed 13 persons here December 28 was recorded as an unexplained accident by a coroner's jury today.

A two day inquiry ended with a verdict that the evidence was insufficient to enable the jury to determine the cause of the wreck.

Taxi Local Is Formed With 750 Members and Will Seek 30,000

New York, Jan. 29 (AP)—At a meeting that lasted until nearly 5 a. m. today, Michael J. Quill, international president of the Transport Workers Union (T.W.U.), presented a charter to 750 members of the newly-formed City Wide Taxi Workers Local 300, a T.W.U. affiliate.

The new union local, which has announced a drive to organize the city's 30,000 taxi drivers, was formed last week in a merger of the City Wide Taxi Workers Union (independent) and Local 150 of the T.W.U.

Four Others Are Honored and Receive Beaver for Their Service

Clarence L. Dumm, principal of Kingston High School, was elected to the presidency of the Ulster-Greene Council Boy Scouts of America at the annual meeting of the Council held Monday evening at the Hotel Stuyvesant.

Mr. Dumm succeeds G. Herbert DeKay.

Four Scouters were awarded the Silver Beaver for outstanding and distinguished service to boyhood. The recipients were the Rev. Harvey I. Todd, who has been the pastor of the Woodstock Dutch Reformed Church for 22 years; Bart C. Van Ingen, former superintendent of schools of the City of Kingston; Joel Balotin, president of the Ellenville Board of Education; and Herbert Bell, Ulster farmer of Milton, who has served as district chairman of the southern district.

President DeKay in his message to the Council said that the year 1946 had been a memorable one in the annals of the Ulster-Greene Council. It has been a year marked by many significant happenings, none spectacular, but indicative of the trend of scouting in the Council.

Total boys enrolled in scouting and senior scouting showed some decrease in the first half of the year, but in the second half a large number of new scouts have been enrolled. Cub scouting has greatly increased. National records reveal that for a time after the war a let-down in boy interest took place, which only recently has been remedied. Such a reaction is probably natural after the intense wartime activity.

Camping is on upgrade. The camping situation is on the upgrade. A tremendous amount of work remains to be done, however, over the next five years. The addition of a lake made possible through the generosity of Knaust Brothers and which will be complete by the 1947 camping season is a definite step forward in this important phase of scouting. It is worthy to note that the tremendous

Yerry Says Union Organization Hit By Pilgrim Action

Business Agent's Point of View Is Layoff Was Move to Stop Valid Action

The Pilgrim Furniture Company's action in allegedly laying off approximately 90 per cent of its workers was described today by George E. Yerry Jr., business agent of the Kingston Metal Trades Council, as an effort on the part of the company to forestall organization of a union already recognized by the National Labor Relations Board.

The latest development in the protracted battle between United Brotherhood of Carpenters and the Pilgrim Company followed closely on the heels of the union certification by the N.L.R.B. following an election on January 17.

Barney King, general manager of the company, told The Freeman this morning the layoffs were due to "business conditions" and lack of orders. Mr. King declared that if Mr. Yerry could provide the company with orders the men would be put back to work.

Mr. Yerry alleges that layoffs started on Monday and have continued throughout the week. He estimated that ninety per cent of the workers have been laid off for an indefinite period.

Mr. King denied that the layoffs were the result of anything but "business conditions." He said that he was unable to state the number of workers laid off since the negotiations will get under way, he said, regardless of the number of men on the job. The company is bound by law to negotiate with a group that has been certified by the N.L.R.B., he stated.

The N.L.R.B. certification notice recognized the United Brotherhood of Carpenters as the exclusive representative of all production employees of the Pilgrim Furniture in union negotiations, Mr. Yerry said.

"The Pilgrim Company began notifying employees on Monday that it was closing down for an indefinite period due to lack of orders," the labor leader asserted. "The union contends that this is a deliberate effort on the part of the Pilgrim company to forestall the completion of the union. A charter has been issued by the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and we have been given assurances of their full support."

Mr. Yerry said he spoke to H. L. Stevenson of Indianapolis, International vice-president by telephone yesterday and was assured the support of all carpenters unions in the American Federation of Labor.

Bontecou Proposal Finds Legislators Chilly to Idea

Dutchess Senator Offered Idea to End Closed Shop Practice in State

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 29 (AP)—Governor Dewey's administration shied away today from any connection with a Republican legislator's proposal to outlaw the closed shop in New York state.

The governor's office disclaimed any prior knowledge of the concurrent resolution introduced in the Senate by Frederick I. Bontecou of Poughkeepsie and G.O.P. legislative chiefs gave it a publicly non-committal but privately frosty reception.

While the Democratic minority bluntly criticized the measure, Republican leaders chorused "no comment" amid reliable reports they would throttle it.

The bill, proposing a popular vote on a constitutional amendment to ban the closed shop, would not affect the rights of employees to organize and bargain collectively.

The State Federation of Labor claimed the bill was "inspired by the enemies of the labor movement."

Harold C. Hanover, Federation secretary-treasurer, said Bontecou was "merely a pawn in the hands of labor's enemies."

Bontecou, a senator since 1935, was G.O.P. candidate for lieutenant-governor in 1938 when Dewey

Sessions Attract Overflow Crowd at Armory; All Accommodated

The New York State Horticultural Society's 1947 eastern meeting which opened today at the New York State Armory on Manor avenue will be the largest in the history of the organization from the standpoint of attendance and number of exhibits, according to T. E. LaMont, of Albion, assistant to Secretary Roy P. McPherson.

Registration of paid members of the society is expected to exceed by at least 50 per cent above the 500 or more of last year, while the spacious drill shed of the state armory provides space for larger exhibits of the most modern equipment.

Approximately 500 visitors were inspecting the exhibits shortly after the Kingston session—the 92nd annual meeting—got under way at 10 o'clock with the invocation, Walter Herring of Ulster Park was chairman of the day's meetings.

Lectures scheduled during the morning were on Psylla and Codling Moth Control on Pears by Donald W. Hamilton, U.S.D.A., Poughkeepsie laboratory; Controlling Oriental Peach Moth by Ellisworth H. Wheeler, Division of Entomology, of Geneva, Controlling the Japanese Beetle, Adams, Poughkeepsie; New information on Fruit Thinning and Drop Prevention Sprays by M. B. Holtzman, Department of Pomology, Ithaca.

The influx of out of town visitors reached a peak last night when delegates began checking in at the Governor Clinton Stuyvesant Hotel and Kirkland. The Chamber of Commerce had secured accommodations for the overflow and it was reported early today that all the visitors had been accommodated.

Exhibits Are Inspected

Mr. LaMont estimated that more than a thousand persons would inspect the variety of exhibits today and that a peak attendance of nearly 3,000 could be expected Thursday, the highest on the second day, he said.

The armory exhibit features equipment and machinery to cover every phase of farming from the time the first spade of dirt is turned over until the product is on the market.

The latest in tractor machinery, spray materials, fruit packings, nursery stock seeds, refrigerators, heavy farm machinery, cold storage, insect and pest controls are advertised in attractive booths sponsored by nationally known firms.

One of the new features is an exhibit by the famous New York and New England Apple Institute.

Elimination of Arsenic Could Save Bees, Dyce Tells Growers

Most losses of bees from use of poisonous insecticides could be prevented if arsenic were eliminated from spray schedules until after bees are removed from orchards, Dr. E. J. Today's opening session of the three-day meeting was devoted chiefly to discussion of sprays for insect and disease control and their effects.

Dr. Dyce, reported that increased use of poisonous insecticides has forced many beekeepers to move their bees from intensive

Dewey Says He Won't Alter Address to 2200 Block

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 29 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, a front-runner for the 1948 Republican presidential nomination, says he is "very happy with the house I now live in."

"I am not looking for another house," he said last night at the annual legislative dinner of the New York Department of the American Legion.

Paul C. Hitchcock of Glen Falls, state commander of the Legion, had praised the Dewey administration's program for veterans and expressed confidence the Governor would be sympathetic toward the ex-servicemen, whether he were living in Albany or "at 2200 Pennsylvania Avenue."

Edward Scheiberling of Albany, past national commander of the Legion, volunteered that the roof of the White House was leaking when he visited there. He said also that 2200 Pennsylvania Avenue was the Russian Embassy. (The Soviet Embassy is not located at that address. The White House address is 1600 Pennsylvania Ave.)

Dewey said the roof of the executive mansion at Albany did not leak, except in one corner, and then only when the snow backed up.

"I enjoy the house, the company

P.S.C. Sets February 10 for Its Third Hearing on Bus Plea

Company's Petition to Offer Intermediate Service on Route Undergoes Second Session; Four Witnesses Give Testimony

The Public Service Commission has set February 10 for the third hearing on the petition of the Adirondack Transit Lines for permission to offer intermediate bus service on its route between the New Jersey state line and points in the Kingston and Albany areas of New York.

P.S.C. Examiner George Mack, who conducted the second hearing at Albany yesterday, said he believed final testimony would be taken at the February 10 session.

A decision probably would not be handed down for several weeks, The Associated Press reports.

Mack said yesterday's meeting was devoted largely to examination and cross examination of William F. Hanrahan, Kingston, general traffic manager for Adirondack Transit. He testified as to proposed fares and schedules.

Other witnesses included: George J. Stanton, manager of the New York state employment center, this city; John J. Sheehy, supervisor of Wallkill prison, and Virginia Hurdman, Chestertown teacher. They described bus service between Albany and Kingston as inadequate.

The Adirondack Lines, which operates between New York City and Malone and Massena in northern New York, seeks temporary permission to:

1. Pickup passengers between the New Jersey border and Kingston and discharge them between Kingston and Albany, at Albany and at certain points north of Albany.

2. Pickup passengers at specified points north of Albany and discharge them between Albany and Kingston, at Kingston and at points between Kingston and the Jersey line.

3. Pickup passengers at points between Albany and Kingston for discharge both north of Albany and between Kingston and the New Jersey border.

The line may now carry only interstate fares to and from the intermediate New York points. It is seeking permission to serve, it is allowed to carry passengers between those points and New York City because such fares are considered interstate passengers since the line crosses northern New Jersey.

The Mountain View Coach Line, operating between Albany and Kingston, and several other lines with franchises in the Albany and Kingston areas are opposing the Adirondack Lines' request.

$100,000 For Streets Authorized

Republicans Question Need for Two Trucks at $33,410, Quonset Huts at $21,570

Letter Asks Aid

Teacher Communication Brings Query on What It Means

Republican members of the Common Council held firm in their opposition to the request of the Board of Public Works for an appropriation of $166,703.74 for purchase of machinery and equipment, when the matter again was brought up for action at an adjourned meeting of the Common Council Tuesday night. And with the strict party vote of 7 to 6 falling short of the necessary two-thirds majority for authorization of a bond issue the proposition was defeated.

Request for the appropriation was brought up at the regular meeting of the Council on January 7 and at that time action was deferred pending a conference between members of the Council and the Board of Public Works for the purpose of obtaining more detailed information as to need for the equipment asked for.

Tuesday night Alderman Joseph Amato and Peter F. Simpson, majority members of the finance, ways and means committee, reported in favor of the appropriation. Alderman Victor Roth presenting a minority report in opposition.

The minority report held that present cost seemed excessive and that unless there was immediate compelling need such purchases should be deferred for a time. Further, the need for spending $33,410 for two Walters snow plow trucks, used for heavier snows, was questioned, as was the need for spending $21,570 for Quonset buildings for the city parks.

The majority report and recommendation was approved 7 to 6. Later a resolution to issue bonds in the amount of $158,000 to finance the purchases was passed by the same vote, but as a two-thirds majority is needed for a bond issue, President Schwenk declared the proposition defeated.

The resolution to appropriate $100,000 for construction and reconstruction of city streets during 1947, as requested by the Board of Public Works, also laid over from the regular meeting, met with no opposition and was passed unanimously. The amount will be raised by a bond issue of $50,000 and a down payment of $50,000 from funds on hand. Superintendent Ernest A. Steuding had listed the following streets on which it is hoped to take up work of reconstruction: Albany avenue, Broadway, Elmendorf street, John street, Lindenman avenue, Lucas avenue, Main street, North Front street, South Wall street.

Sheriff's Report Says 497 Jailed During Past Year

During the year 1946 there were 497 persons admitted to the Ulster county jail, according to the annual report of Sheriff George Smith which has been made to the New York State Department of Correction. Of that number 451 were male prisoners and 46 female. Those held before conviction numbered 312 and after conviction 185.

As of January 1, 1946 there were 21 males and one female in the jail. The highest population of the 60 cell jail during 1946 was 46 inmates and the lowest period of occupancy found 17 in jail.

Of the persons who were confined to jail after conviction six males and one female were held for felonies and 163 males and 15 females were held on misdemeanor charges. In custody of the sheriff during the year were 230 males and 26 females who were held for grand jury examination or trial.

Leading the misdemeanor convictions is public intoxication with 95 males and nine females being confined to jail on that charge. Next was disorderly conduct with 76 males and nine females being confined to jail on that charge.

The age limits of those who were confined to jail ranged all the way from 16 years the minimum age under the law for confinement in a jail, to 77 years and the age at which most inmates came to jail was the minimum age of 16 years. The next age which supplied the second largest number of inmates was 38 years.

Single persons, both female and male, outnumbered the married persons. There were 141 married males and 19 married females admitted during the year while 251 single males and 20 single females were admitted to jail. Thirteen widowed males and five females were admitted and six divorced or separated males and two divorced or separated females were in jail.

Those with a common school education were the more numerous among the inmates. Nineteen persons with a college education were booked, 129 with high school, 326 with a common school education and 12 could not read and write while 11 could not read or write.

The average cost per week for food spent on inmates of the jail for the year was $3.35. Prisoners in the Ulster county jail are no longer fed under the fee system, that plan having been discontinued some time ago by the Board of Supervisors.

Conroy, saying that "our citizens have been shocked by the recent airplane crashes" declared it "essential that action be taken to ascertain what means are adopted to curb such accidents."

Edwards Declares Union Boycotts Increase Charges

Electrical Men Would Outlaw Practices, Say Costs Are Up 500 Per Cent

Washington, Jan. 29 (AP)—R. Stafford Edwards, president of the National Electrical Manufacturers Association, said today union secondary boycotts have increased costs of some electrical fixtures as much as 500 per cent.

Testifying before the Senate Labor Committee, Edwards urged that Congress outlaw such practices. The committee is considering new labor legislation and among the bills before it is one to prohibit secondary boycotts.

Generally speaking, this term is applied when a union refuses to handle or work with the products of a company with which it has no direct dispute.

Edwards took the stand after: 1. Theodore R. Iserman, a New York attorney called for a general overhauling of the Wagner Act. He told the committee the act is "the root of unsatisfactory labor relations in the United States."

2. Chairman Taft (R-Ohio) told newsmen that in view of Secretary of Labor Schwelmbach's testimony the G.O.P.-controlled Senate labor group and the administration may be "closer together" on pending legislation than it appeared earlier.

Discussing boycotts, Edwards said for the last 12 years "many electrical manufacturers have been excluded from most of the important markets of the country, or admitted only on terms imposed by local unions of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (A.F.L.)."

Says No Concealment
He testified that there has been "concealment of the I.B.E.W. boycott policy" since the Supreme Court ruled it is "permissible" under existing laws.

That ruling, Edwards said, "cast entire responsibility for correcting this situation on Congress."

He declared that all local I.B.E.W. unions have been instructed "to boycott all lighting fixtures which (do) not carry the I.B.E.W. label, showing that the fixture has been both fabricated and wired by the I.B.E.W."

Edwards cited this example of the effect of the order: "The Benjamin Electrical Manufacturing Co. (Des Plaines, Ill.) has a contract with its employees who have voted to affiliate with the C.I.O. The company manufactures fluorescent lighting fixtures which are sold and installed throughout the United States."

"In many cities where the company used to sell its fixtures they now find it impossible to sell them because of the I.B.E.W. boycott. The I.B.E.W. then told the company that if they wanted to sell in those cities, they would have to arrange to have their fixtures wired by an electrical contractor employing I.B.E.W. labor."

"The company was perfectly competent to do this work in its own plant, and to have it done outside resulted in large increase in cost, running up to 500 per cent on specific fixtures."

Iserman told the committee he is labor relations counsel for companies which "count their employees in tens and in the tens of thousands."

Strikes Sweep Chile
Striking workers in Chile's nitrate, coal, copper and leather industries have been variously estimated at from 16,300 to 18,000, Valparaiso reports. "The country," says an observer, "is suffering from another wave of strikes which are seriously affecting production and increasing the evils of short supply, high prices and falling purchasing power."

Local Death Record
Funeral services were held at Monticello Monday for Benjamin Sheeley, 53, who died Friday at Monticello Hospital. He was born at Ulster Heights, son of Charles and Cecelia DeJoy Sheeley, but for many years had lived in Monticello.

Mrs. Ethel Rebecca Johnson, widow of Joseph Johnson, died Tuesday at her home in Otisville. Mrs. Johnson was born at Shandaken, daughter of Jesse and Lettie Ashley Van Valkenburgh. She is survived by five children, her mother, three brothers and five sisters.

Many Floral Tributes Await Capone Funeral

Miami Beach, Fla., Jan. 29 (AP)—Large floral tributes in the form of crosses, horseshoes and oversized wreaths jammed a room at a funeral home here today where the body of ex-gangster Al Capone awaited burial.

The funeral home said today it did not know of any funeral plans. The Dale County Board of Health yesterday granted permission for the home to hold the body beyond the usual legal period.

The home said the permit was requested on instructions from Ralph Capone, brother of the one-time Chicago underworld king, who is handling the funeral arrangements.

The holding permit was necessary because of a law requiring papers showing the intended disposition of bodies to be filed within 72 hours after death. Any plans the family has made have been a closely-guarded secret.

Capone died at his Palm Island villa here Saturday night of pneumonia, with apoplexy which he suffered a week ago Tuesday as a contributing cause.

New York Taxes To Ulster County Hit $251,093.09

New York city paid to the county treasurer the 1946 taxes levied and assessed against property owned by the city of New York in the town of Wawarsing, Ulster county. The taxes included such items as county, town, highway and school district taxes and amounted to $111,874.74. The county treasurer also received the sum of $33,722.67 which represents the school district tax in the town of Wawarsing. In addition the city of New York paid to the tax collector, town of Neversink, the sum of $105,495.68 for the 1946 taxes, making a total tax payment of $251,093.09.

It is the policy of the city, officials said, to cooperate as fully as possible with the town and the county and to pay the taxes whenever they fall due. A stipulation was entered into by Charles E. Murphy, corporation counsel, city of New York, represented by Herman E. Gottfried, counsel in charge of the Water Supply Division with Frederick Stang, county attorney, and Jay Rifenburg, county treasurer, which provided in substance that these taxes be paid under protest, thus safeguarding any right which either the city of New York or the county of Ulster may have in the pending certiorari proceedings.

The school district tax for the year 1947 is the subject of dispute and litigation between Union Free School District No. 1, consisting of the towns of Neversink and Fawnburg in Sullivan county and Fawnburg in Sullivan county and Wawarsing in Ulster county, and School District No. 24, which encompasses the town of Wawarsing only. Each of these school districts claimed and sought payment from the city of the school district tax in issue. Rather than without payment of the tax, the city pursuant to a court order deposited in escrow with the county treasurer the larger amount of the tax which totaled $33,722.67, pending a court decision as to which of the school districts is rightfully entitled to the tax.

Payment of all of these taxes was authorized by the Board of Water Supply, city of New York, of which Major Irving V. A. Huie is president.

Fears Defeat May Come
Washington, Jan. 29 (AP)—Rep. Engel (Mich.) told his fellow Republicans today that enactment of the G.O.P.-backed bill to cut income taxes 20 per cent might "spell defeat" for the party in 1948. The long-brewing rebellion in G.O.P. ranks against "across the board" tax cutting broke into the open as the House neared a vote on legislation freezing excise taxes on liquor, furs and many other items at high wartime rates. Signaling for the floor during debate on that measure, Engel urged his friends to oppose the bill.

by Rep. Knutson (R-Minn.) to trim income taxes a flat 20 per cent for all persons earning up to $300,000 a year.

Dentists Stand in Line
Edgewater, N. J., Jan. 29 (AP)—There were 500 dentists in line this morning when the War Assets Administration opened its sale of scarce dental equipment at the disposal center here. Nearly 200 of them had spent the night inside a warehouse awaiting the 9:30 a. m. sale opening. Dr. Maurice Oringer of 57 West 17th street, New York, was first purchaser. He bought a chair and dental operating unit for $200.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

New York, Jan. 29 (AP)—America is on the move.

Very few guys die with their boots on now in the same county where they were born.

So it pays to know how to spread around.

That's America. That's the way the country has always been since Patrick Henry said "Give me liberty or—give me elbow room."

The slogan that caught the most eyes was:

"Move on."

But you've got to do more than move along. You've got to belong. Otherwise you never stop moving.

There probably are more people moving in the states now than at any time since Virginia and Massachusetts took up housekeeping.

But moving and getting along are two different things. Covered wagons don't impress the Indians in California anymore, not even those who draw their paychecks from the horse operas.

Your gift to wherever you go isn't anything else but you.

Nowadays there is no frontier to move to—not in the physical sense. But the best tradition of the world's best melting pot goes on, regardless of class or creed.

"The sons and grandsons of the men who heeded Horace Greeley's 'Go West, young man,' now turn East and show the New Yorkers how to run their own stock market. The second World War only accented the urge to keep on the go. With the growth of faster means of travel America shrinks like boiled wool underpants in a July sun.

People don't gauge you so much by who your granddaddy "fit with" as by who you are.

Today—if a stranger wants to make his place—he can cast anchor wherever he thinks it will profit him. Old prejudices are dying. Opportunity is everywhere.

Years of travel have convinced me that America's greatest natural resource is its reservoir of good will, the basic desire of one man to help another, friend or newcomer. The stigma of the stranger is ending.

I would like to say that this good will is basically an American trait, but the truth is that it is a characteristic of mankind. We are all built so that we want to see the next guy get along—if not as well as ourselves, then almost as well.

And we are also built so that we want to help the outlander—if he is humble enough to ask our advice. So are every other people I met in travels through fifty countries.

It is all up to the individual traveler. Hospitality is no monopoly of any one financial class or color. Good manners are the same everywhere. Whether you are offered barbecued lamb's eyes, a delicacy in the Middle East, or good steak, Gotham's delight, the host still wants you to have a good time on the best he can provide.

When you come to a strange city or country, the worst thing you can be is lonely, self-centered or aloof.

This is cowardice and easy. It makes it pleasant to be sorry for yourself—and that is the greatest danger anyone can indulge in, a dissipation more perilous than wine or opium.

The thing to do when you come to a strange city or country is to avoid its menacing pitfalls. Look up the people who have the same hobbies or religious faiths you have, or who belong to the same lodge.

If you can't find them, then introduce yourself to the other folk you encounter. But never change your feathers just to please them.

The thing most people are most homesick for is to talk to interesting people they don't know. Stay yourself. They'll like you for that alone. The world is broader-minded than you are.

The one crime is to go somewhere and be alone.

After this a clinic on the technique of amalgam filling and cavity preparation was presented by Dr. H. G. Kittel of Troy, a member of the Board of Dental Examiners, University of the State of New York. The clinician presented his subject in a very understandable and comprehensive manner. The study group proved a very appreciative, receptive and enthusiastic audience and thanked Dr. Kittel for his fine presentation.

Arrangements will be made for more meetings.

Coast Police Have Signed Confession On Dahlia Murder

Husky D. S. Voorhees Is Jailed After Note on Slaying of Short Woman

Los Angeles, Jan. 29 (AP)—Daniel S. Voorhees, curly-haired and husky, was booked today in the county jail on suspicion of murder after police said he signed a confession to the sadistic mutilation slaying of beautiful Elizabeth Short.

Detective Ed Barrett displayed a sheet of paper on which was written: "I did kill Beth Short." It was signed "Dan Voorhees."

Voorhees, 33 and blue-eyed, surrendered to homicide detail officers late last night after telephoning them he would be waiting on a downtown street corner. Barrett said he announced:

"I'm so sick I can't stand it any longer. I killed the 'Black Dahlia.' Take me to jail. I want to get it over with."

Miss Short, 22, was known to her friends as the "Black Dahlia" because of her penchant for flower headdress and black raiment. She was found dead in a vacant lot January 15. Her nude body had been battered and bisected at the diaphragm.

Declines to Talk

After signing the one-sentence confession, Barrett reported, Voorhees declined to discuss the case further, saying:

"I've talked too much already. I want to see a lawyer."

Det. L. A. Charles King said questioning would be suspended "until he recovers from his bewildered and befuddled state." Dr. Paul de River, police psychiatrist, reporting on a brief examination, said he could "come to no definite conclusion."

The shocking slaying of the young film hopeful from Medford, Mass., has in recent days brought police and newspapers a deluge of crank notes. But among the messages were some officers believed authentic. One contained the girl's address and back and social security card. Another said the slayer would give himself up at 10 a. m. today. Voorhees' arrest came less than 12 hours from the deadline, but Barrett quoted him as saying he had no part of any of the communications.

Claims Wife, Daughter

Police began an immediate check of seven hotels where Voorhees reported he had been living, and police were notified in Phoenix, Ariz., where Voorhees said he has a wife and daughter, 9.

The Phoenix Police Identification Bureau reported that one Dan Voorhees had been arrested there five times, and in 1942 was questioned in connection with an assault to commit rape. Phoenix records showed no disposition. Voorhees said he was released on the charge.

The other arrests, Phoenix police reported, were in 1936, when he gave his age as 22, on a charge of disturbing the peace, in 1939, 1940 and 1946 on drunk charges. Phoenix records gave Voorhees' home address as Kelsey, Calif.

Did He Say "NO?"

It's embarrassing to have a friend turn you down on a loan. It hurts one's pride and places a heavy strain on cordial relations.

If you need to borrow, you're wise to keep your loan on a businesslike basis by going to a bank. You establish a line of credit and friends remain as you want them to be—friendly.

THOMAS A. EDISON

It is a good thing to remember that the wonderful electric development which the United States has enjoyed, and where electricity is in more universal use than any place in the world, was brought about by the courage and initiative of individuals.

In recognition of one man who did more to provide electric service for the world than any other, the Thomas A. Edison Centennial will be celebrated throughout the country February 11, by electric power companies, professional societies, electric leagues, and other business, civic, and educational organizations.

It is no exaggeration to say that Thomas Edison made possible more appliances to lighten work and provide amusement than any other individual. After Edison conceived an invention, industry pioneered the way in making its use practical and economical for the average citizen. It would be impossible to estimate the benefits flowing to mankind as a result of Edison's imagination. The ramifications of the use of electricity after his perfection of the incandescent lamp in 1879 are too varied to enumerate.

The Edison Centennial is a fitting tribute to the man who made electric service for the world possible. By the same token, it reflects credit on the individuals and companies who provide electric service at a cost within the reach of every pocketbook.

The record of Edison's achievements is a testimonial of what the United States stands for—opportunity—no limit on the exercise of talent and initiative.

When you turn an electric switch on February 11, play your phonograph, see a motion picture, or enjoy any one of the countless uses of electricity, pause a moment and think of Thomas Edison, a typical American who made these things possible.

Herbert Hoover on this trip abroad will get the low-down as usual, and maybe this time the public will believe him.

FOREIGN TRADE

The State Department wants national backing for the 18-nation International Trade Organization meeting in Geneva in April. Initiated by the United States, this was to realize the Hull reciprocal trade idea.

Opposition has developed among business leaders and some Congressmen. They say that while other nations for years have used expert practical business advisers in international dealings, American government officials have made decisions regardless of cost or of commercial considerations, excluding business leaders who must carry out the terms. They believe that though unrestricted free trade may be ideal, it is impossible against present nation-controlled practices such as the English labor government's empire preferences, Communism in Russia and its satellites, cooperatives in Sweden, and similar conditions elsewhere. They object to attempted competition with countries subsidized by the United States in loans, debt concessions and commodity advances.

Some way must be found to safeguard domestic economy and at the same time to work for free world markets. Cooperation between government and business is called for.

Once again the overwhelming demand in this land of the free and home of the brave is for a new car.

THE COLLEGE MILL

Dr. Charles Woolsey Cole, president of Amherst College, seems to think there is too much cramming and jamming in college education. Speaking to an alumni group, he says: "We seem to be trying to process students instead of trying to educate them. It is impossible to educate men and make them broad by mass methods."

This is doubtless true, especially at the present time when the colleges seem to be flooded with more students than they can handle. Real education was never intended

'These Days'

By George E. Sokolsky

LITTLE BY LITTLE

As I read Jan Ciechanowski's "Defeat in Victory," I realized more and more how vain it is for the sleek politician to attempt to cover his trickeries. Ciechanowski was the Polish Ambassador in Washington when Poland had hopes of freedom. He was relieved of office when Poland became a Russian puppet. Now he tells his story.

This book is so full of data that it is hard to know where to begin in a short column such as this. It is interesting to pick out the pattern of Mr. Roosevelt's politics. For instance, by 1944, most Americans of Polish descent knew that Roosevelt had gone pro-Russia. The Republicans counted on "The Polish Vote" to carry New York, Michigan, and Wisconsin and perhaps Illinois.

Ciechanowski gives this picture: "On the eleventh of October (1944) the President received a large delegation of the Polish-American Congress, who were desirous to ascertain at first-hand his views on the application of the Atlantic Charter to American foreign policy, and particularly to the problem of Poland's independence in the light of Soviet demands."

"The Polish language press in America did not appear wholly satisfied with the results of the talk which the President had had with the delegation of the Polish-American Congress. I learned privately that the President was aware of this fact and intended to see the chairman of that organization, Charles Rozmarek, on board his special train in Chicago on October 25. . . . I noted from the press that the chairman of the Polish-American Congress had come out fully endorsing the Democratic ticket immediately after his interview with the President."

The dates here are interesting. The Tehran Conference ended on December 1, 1943. It was at this meeting that Roosevelt had agreed with Stalin on the division of Poland according to the Ribbentrop-Molotov Agreement.

Ciechanowski tells this of the Tehran: "At this dinner I sat next to General Henry Arnold, chief of the American Air Forces. He had accompanied the President to Tehran and I was interested to hear his impressions of that important meeting. He told me he could sum them up in one sentence: He saw no great difference in Stalin's and Roosevelt's ideologies, and he believed it was a mistake to think that Stalin was a communist."

In June, 1944, Mikolajczyk, the Polish peasant leader, came to Washington and Roosevelt pulled out the old red carpet. He, Roosevelt, gave the impression that he had not yet made up his mind about the Polish borders; that Churchill had brought up the Curzon Line and that Stalin had taken advantage of it; and he added: "But with the Russians I always keep my fingers crossed." Roosevelt said nothing about the fact that he and Stalin had already come to an understanding concerning Poland as of December 1, 1943. Nor did he say that the "Curzon Line" was the same as the "Ribbentrop-Molotov line" of 1939.

So here is the payoff. Mikolajczyk goes to Moscow to see Stalin and an argument developed over the Polish boundaries. Let Ciechanowski tell the tale:

"At this point Molotov made a surprising statement. He said that he saw it was necessary to remind those present that at Tehran President Roosevelt had expressed his complete agreement with the Curzon Line as the Polish-Soviet frontier and regarded it as a just solution which should be satisfactory both to the Soviet Union and to Poland, and that the President had merely added that, for the time being, he preferred his agreement on this point should not be made public."

"Molotov . . . turned to Churchill and Harriman and challenged them to deny his statement. . . . 'because it appears to me,' he said, 'that Mr. Mikolajczyk is not a just solution developed over the Polish boundaries. Let Ciechanowski tell the tale.'"

"Molotov paused dramatically . . . to see if anyone would take up his challenge," which no one did.

Look at the dates. Roosevelt had agreed, as Molotov said, to the Molotov-Ribbentrop line (called Curzon Line) by December 1, 1943 but all through 1944 he was telling the Poles another story.

This is a useful book even though its publisher was too stingy to give it an index.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

ALLERGY SYMPTOMS LIKE COMMON COLD

When an individual has many head colds during the year, often even during warm weather, he may decide that there is some defect in his nose and throat and consult his physician or nose and throat specialist. Formerly, if nose drops did not help the condition, some slight defect of nose, throat or mouth was corrected. When these measures failed, the patient felt that there was nothing that could be done.

Today we know that many of these cases of "continuous colds" are caused by allergy and that if the substance or substances causing the symptoms are removed it means the end of these colds. In Otolaryngology (nose and throat diseases) Dr. Fred E. Hamilton, Roanoke, Va., in the Virginia Medical Monthly, reports his study of 100 cases of allergy, ranging in age from infants to 77 years of age, 37 males and 63 females. Twelve males and 18 females had a positive history of allergy and some patients a doubtful history. Where there was a family history of allergy, it was considered good evidence of allergy. "Frequently recurring colds may be a manifestation of allergy, and many unsuccessful tonsil and adenoid operations have been attributed to unrecognized allergic disease."

The most common symptoms of allergy are a watery discharge from the nose, stuffy nose, headache and dizziness; hoarseness, deafness, head noises (tinnitus), sore throat, asthma, and carache. About 10 per cent of the population of the United States and Canada suffer from allergy.

In this series of 100 cases, 85 had undergone operation before the first visit to allergist. In 45 patients satisfactory results were obtained by treatment for allergy—eliminating offending foods, or other substances, or desensitizing by injections of offending substances. In 17 cases good results followed allergic management plus surgery. In 14 cases the results were poor owing to poor cooperation on the part of the patients.

If you are always suffering with colds, ask your physician about undergoing tests for allergy. Send today for Dr. Barton's helpful booklet entitled "Allergy" which means being allergic or sensitive to various foods and other substances. Just enclose 10 cents and a three cent stamp, to cover cost of handling and mailing, and send it to the Bell Syndicate, Inc., in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, Post Office Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y. (From the Bell Syndicate, Inc., 247 West 43rd St., New York.)

for rapid mass production. Yet the masses rush in. Many of them just want football, but most of them probably want real education; and how they are going to get their share of it in the general scramble is a serious problem.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By VESTBROOK PEGLER

On a recent tour of duty in Washington, I inquired further into the late Franklin D. Roosevelt's financial interest in coal mines and company towns called Graceton and Vintondale, Pa., which officials of the United Mine Workers have described as feudal communities in the years prior to the first of Roosevelt's labor boards. These are properties of the Delano family, Frederic Delano, an uncle of the late President, was, at last reports and I had been for many years, the direct head of the company. A man in high authority in the United Mine Workers states without qualification that Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, the sister of Frederic and the mother of Franklin, had a large and, for a long time, very profitable interest in the mines. I found no authority who was able to say flatly that President Roosevelt, himself, was one of the owners but there is a letter in existence from Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, written on White House stationery in June, 1942, in which she said: "My husband sold all interest in these holdings. I take that to mean that he was one of the owners at one time."

Still, I wanted to learn whether the bad conditions at Graceton and Vintondale, the sort of company feudalism that both he late President and his wife so fondly deplored in their castigations of greedy and heartless absentee, actually existed at a time when Mr. Roosevelt was a mature man and in a position to oppose the sort of oppression that he publicly condemned. My informant at the United Mine Workers said that if it was in my mind to excuse him on the ground that all this took place when he was a child or a young man, I could just forget that. These conditions continued, he said throughout the years when Roosevelt was governor of New York and into the second year of his first term as President. He made no initiative move to reform them even then. John L. Lewis forced the reforms.

The United Mine Workers had never been able to organize the miners well enough to present a strong front against the Delano family. They had struck these mines in 1914, 1916, 1919 and 1920 but had lost every time. In 1934, however, when the first of Roosevelt's collective bargaining laws was tried, work was flashed to the organizers in Pennsylvania to move in, and organize the miners.

An organizer did start into Graceton immediately but was met at the town limits by armed guards who tried to drive him away. He then telephoned the national headquarters of the U.M.W. in Washington, requesting instructions. John L. Lewis instructed him to warn the local executives of the Delano property that if he was not admitted to the town and permitted to recruit union members within two hours, he, Lewis, would issue a public statement. It is surmised that the company executives got in touch with Uncle Frederic Delano at his office in the state department where he held the title of chairman of the National Resources Planning board, and that he passed the word to let down the bar at any rate, the organized walked in, the miners joined the union and Lewis never had to issue a statement which would have depicted President Roosevelt's own family as an uncommonly tough and inveterate opponent of organized labor.

This informant said Graceton was a town in which the company controlled the people from the cradle to the grave. "A company doctor delivered you into the world, you lived on company property and traded at company stores until you died and then you were buried by the company," he said.

In the first decade of the century, miners immigrated or were imported from Austria-Hungary. They were mostly Slavs. It was the practice in those years of unrestricted immigration to bring in batches of Europeans and put them to work in mines and mills and permit them, theoretically, to work out their passage money. (Historians have held, however, that many of them never were able to get out of debt and, being ignorant and afraid, became serfs in the land of promise.)

After my inquiry at the headquarters of the U.M.W., I telephoned an official of the union in Pittsburgh who had tackled Graceton repeatedly during the years of exclusion, but finally walked in, after the threat by Lewis. "You bet I did the job," he said. "I had 500 or 600 volunteers from the surrounding towns and we just went down there and freed the men. The guards were just overwhelmed. There wasn't even a fistfight. About 240 miners joined us. A township road ran through the town but the armed guards used to stop you at the town line on the public road. We would be harassed if we just walked through the town. I lived handy by it. If you walked through on a nice Sunday afternoon, five or six guards would step up and insult you. They controlled it. It was outright feudalism. They controlled the courts and they would find you guilty of some trumped up charge like disturbing the peace. I never could find out if F.D.R. owned part of it, but Frederic Delano told me his sister, Roosevelt's mother, owned a lot of the bonds. Later, in 1939, when I was trying to collect wages due the miners (these negotiations took place in the State Department in Washington) Delano said he and his sister (Roosevelt's mother) owned Graceton. He said the mine was not paying them but in one year alone it had paid 100 per cent. He had taken out plenty. He paid the back wages."

"At Vintondale, when we tried to go in, the guards threw logs across the road to block it, but we walked in with 300 men and captured the place. We got about 500 members after I took it up with John Lewis. Before that the guards would fall in with you and follow you wherever you went. This organizer, a regional official of the U.M.W., said that after the union had won, miners sometimes would give President Roosevelt entire credit for their victory over the company.

"I would always say who the hell ever gave you that information," he said. None of Roosevelt's biographers, whether affectionate or objective, has ever discussed the family's ownership of these properties and the company's conduct in relation to the workers. My view is that historians, who

Bills Proposed at Albany

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 29 (AP)—A bill to require tuberculosis tests for New York state couples seeking marriage licenses was introduced today by Assemblyman Frank J. Pino, Brooklyn Democrat.

The tuberculosis examination would be handled similarly to syphilis tests already required. Pino's bill provided that couples applying for licenses must have laboratory certificates showing successful completion of chest examinations and other tests.

A proposal to strip the State Police superintendent of his authority to set examination standards and qualifications for State Troopers was made by Assemblyman Elisha Barrett, Brightwaters Republican. His measure provides that the Civil Service Commission prescribe the examinations and standards and that appointments to the force be made by the superintendent in accordance with Civil Service laws.

Cities could purchase, sell and distribute milk under a bill authored by Assemblyman Louis Bennett, Bronx Democrat, but they could not sell below cost except for public relief purposes.

Provisions that applications for marriage licenses shall state the color of applicants would be stricken under a proposal by Assemblyman Harold A. Stevens, Manhattan Democrat. He also introduced a bill providing that application blanks for motor vehicle operator's license shall not disclose racial identity.

The Assembly Ways and Means Committee reported favorably on Governor Dewey's program bills to provide unemployment insurance for state employees and to extend the State Youth Commission to 1950.

An Assembly measure would authorize division of Second Judicial District into two additional districts, one for Queens and the other for Nassau and Suffolk. (William E. Clancy, D., Brooklyn.)

Russian Government Maneuvers Are Reportedly Becoming 'Amazingly Transparent' as Concerns Nations, Particularly U.S. and Great Britain

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Jan. 29—The maneuvers of the totalitarian government of Russia in world affairs have been a puzzle and a mystery, but they are now becoming amazingly transparent.

Within the last fortnight Moscow has sought rather clumsily to drive a wedge between the British and American people.

The first attack came through the insidious influence of those British radicals and "left wingers" who are attacking the Attlee-Beyin labor government for playing too closely to the United States.

To refute this charge, Foreign Minister Bevin, in a tone of impatience, made a speech declaring that the British were not tied to anybody. He was, of course, trying to say that Britain was not allied with the United States. But the Russian "Frodo" which is government controlled—promptly jumped on Bevin and said he had "abrogated" the British-Russian treaty of alliance which was designed to last 20 years.

The British government, agitated at such a charge, denied that the treaty had been abrogated and suggested that Moscow, therefore, Generalissimo Stalin said he was glad to receive the reassurance, but that he didn't think the treaty in its present form was particularly strong and felt that, if the British proposal for lengthening the term were taken up seriously, some strengthening points should be added to the whole treaty. He did not clarify what he meant.

Having confused and bewildered the British, Moscow propaganda now is turned on the United States. A dispatch broadcast by the official news agency in Russia declares that British-American relations have assumed the character of a military alliance. The agency says:

"As is known, Britain does not have a formal treaty with the United States yet none can doubt the intimate relations which in fact have been assumed by the character of a military alliance."

"Britain concluded a 20-year treaty with the Soviet Union but it cannot be said that British policy toward the Soviet Union answers the demands of an allied treaty. In reality there are not a few facts showing that Britain and the United States are in a bloc against the Soviet Union."

Nothing illustrates more clearly the Russian strategy of dividing the democracies whenever she can. Her propaganda throughout Latin America, as well as throughout Europe, aims to estrange the United States from countries with which America is on the friendliest terms.

The Russian tactics are not deceiving anybody. The public complaint against the British that they like America too well is, however, the biggest blunder the Communists in Moscow have ever made. It is true that no treaty of alliance exists between America and Britain, but it is just as necessary, it is also true that the words and phrases of no treaty between Russia and Great Britain can be strong enough as to warrant British ever taking the side of Russia if the latter some day follows in the Hitler path of unprovoked aggression against peaceful nations.

The disinterested observers in the world may ask: "Why all the talk of need for alliances?" Isn't the United Nations supposed to be an adequate safeguard against aggression so that alliances between individual nations are to be superfluous?

The two-power treaties of alliance were signed at a time when the United Nations had not yet come into being. Now that the U. N. is here, the signing of new alliances or extension of old alliances cannot but be regarded as a blow at the prestige of the U. N. and as a sign that some nations are reverting to the games of power politics which brought on World War I and World War 2.

What is behind Russian policy? Is there anyone in Russia who seriously thinks a wedge can be driven between the United States and Britain? There is no chance of such a development, and the sooner the Moscow governmental propaganda recover from their first blunder, the better for collective security, the sooner will the whole world situation improve and the reduction of armaments be brought nearer to fruition. ### BRICKER'S GREAT OPPORTUNITY

The impression which appears to have got around over the country that Senator John Bricker of Ohio is out of the 1948 presidential picture is completely in error.

After spending several days in Capitol Hill talking with lawmakers and political strategists I am convinced that Bricker is today in a sturdier position for strong support in the next presidential election than he ever has been. He needs only to take advantage of a wide-open opportunity created for him unintentionally by the competitive field.

For he is at this time the only major prospect (aside from McCarthy) not likely to be in a running who is not compromising with socialist concepts of "liberalism"—liberalism in the sense of state paternalism. He is the only one steering wide of New Deal-Marxist influences.

Dewey's long record of trying to out-deal the Roosevelt regime is well known. He went farthest left when he forced through the New York legislature a so-called Fair Employment Practices measure, which was purely to please certain elements among minorities at an enormous cost in rights and principle to employers and to non-minority employees. (This measure actually forces the employer to hire or promote a member of one race or religion at the expense of others.)

New York voters had no chance last November to repudiate this measure because all major candidates were afraid not to endorse it—on account of New York's huge minorities. But Dewey will have a hard time convincing the vast America in a national election that he will not be ruled by a minority at the expense of constitutional principles applying to the whole people.

Taft Moving Leftward
Harold Stassen, former governor of Minnesota, likewise is a leftist, internationalist record, despite his current efforts to cover it up. All last summer and fall he was urging a world dictatorship with a police force stronger than any possible combination of nations, with atomic bomb bases all over the world and with world laws authorizing to suppress anybody who threatened the peace—in the opinion of the policemen. This would scrap our Constitution and make our president a puppet.

Stassen's underling, Luther W. Youngdahl, the new governor of Minnesota, has made known that his program calls for an F.E.P.C. for socialized medicine, socialized housing and other "liberal" measures wanted by the C.I.O. and the Marxists, and he now asks—in typical New Deal fashion—for an unexpected $14,000,000 to spend. It is well known that Stassen is closely observed and advised by certain leftists who were powerful behind the scenes in the Roosevelt regime. He apparently is a political captive.

Stassen will not be able to live down his record. Comes now Senator Robert Taft, who was one of the targets of the Smear Band "liberals" till recently. They were calling him, and all anti-New Deal Republicans, "Fascists." This smear suddenly stopped in the case of Taft. Now he makes it clear that he is going to insist on passage of the so-called housing bill which he and two New Deal Senators, Wagner and Ellender, framed during the last session of Congress, that he will go for a considerable degree of socialized medicine, probably will compromise on many points in labor legislation including the closed shop in deference to union chiefs, and may even become a supporter of the vicious Fair Employment Practices bill.

It is clear that these measures do not represent the will of the majority of American voters as expressed November 5. But who is there to give the people what they demanded? Many of the voices that were strong at the right during the election campaign have quieted down under the sudden and unexpected wave of compromise which is sweeping the Republican Congress, under Taft's leadership.

Need An Abe Lincoln
This is Bricker's opportunity. He has been holding back partly out of deference to his old friend Taft and to Ohio state harmony, and partly because he is new on the scene. But his so-called pledge of a few weeks ago has been widely misunderstood; he did not agree to keep quiet nor to let Taft shape his policy or do his voting for him. He could not delegate such power to Taft. He is now obligated to his electors. It is to be noted further that at the time of the agreement he could not have foreseen that Taft was going to start splitting the O.R.P. forces by championing socialistic "liberal" measures. Bricker, fighting to restore grass roots Americanism after fourteen years of abuses, will only be standing where he has always stood.

This is the time for him to launch his offensive if he is going to at all. If he starts giving out press releases, challenges every socialist measure in a toe-to-toe fight on the Senate floor, he will soon be hailed as the leader of conservative America.

Western civilization is crumbling before Marxism. Our own Fifth Column now has its frame work about complete, and is so powerful in every city, with its many private gestapoes intimidating and discrediting any rising opposition, and has such a propaganda machine and so much prestige in Washington, that this government is just about paralyzed. Leaders are afraid to speak up, and tell the truth. We have not been so seriously threatened in our history, at least not since 1861. The leader who sees the opposition clearly and dares declare war on it is likely to be the Abe Lincoln of this century.

Bricker can qualify for the job. He is the only one now in the Washington scene who can. If he does not to choose, he will leave millions of Americans in both major parties, including the real backbone of the G.O.P., without leadership—confused, disappointed and eventually bitter. ## Stamps IN THE NEWS

By the AP Feature Service

An anti-tuberculosis semi-postal group and three parcel post stamps are among Belgium's recent postage issues.

The anti-tuberculosis stamps are in part a continuation of the 1945 stamps (Scott's B-408-416) issued for the same purpose, in that they present coats of arms as the principal design. But, whereas the 1945 series showed heraldry of Belgian provinces, the latest stamps present heraldry of cities and in addition a scene typical of the city honored. Thus the 65-plus-35 centimes red shows carpentry tools and finished products in connection with coat of arms of Mechelen and the 90-plus-60 c yellow, honoring Dintant, depicts pottery. A post scene appears on the 1.35-plus-1.15 francs green stamp in tribute to the seaport of Ostend. The 3.15-plus-1.85 f blue stamp presenting the coat of arms of Verviers features a loom in keeping with the wool and yarn fame of that city.
The parcel post stamps feature two railroad mail cars forming an arrow being shot from a bow. Values are 8, 10 and 12 francs.

First of the 1947 crop of United States postage stamps has been formally announced as a commemorative marking the 100th birthday of Thomas Alva Edison, which will be placed on sale February 11 at Milan, Ohio, birthplace of the famous inventor. The Post Office Department announcement said a description of the stamp, expected to be of three cent denomination, would be announced later.

Edison was indirectly honored in 1929 with a two-cent stamp commemorating the 50th anniversary of his invention of the incandescent electric lamp, but the forthcoming stamp will be the first to pay direct tribute to him.

Finland also has honored one of its towns with two stamps marking the 600th anniversary of the founding of Borga, also known as Porvoo, a town of 6,000 on the Gulf of Finland. The constitution of Finland was framed at Borga in 1809, and the town trades in furs, wool and dairy produce. Both stamps picture scenes in the town.

Values are five markkas gray and eight markkas red brown.
Finland also has issued an eight markkas stamp commemorating the 400th anniversary of the founding of the town of Tammsaari, also known as Ekenas.

Almost hidden are the extra values of a child welfare semi-postal set issued by The Netherlands late in 1946. One must look at the fine type at the bottom of the stamp, where the printer's name usually appears, to discover that the five stamps have additional charges for the benefit of charity. A youngster on a merry-go-round horse is depicted. Values and colors are 2-plus-2 cents dull purple, 4-plus-2 c green, 7½-plus-2½ c orange, 10-plus-5 c wine and 20-plus-5 c blue.

Three new stamps from Liechtenstein present wildlife found in the little European principality. The head of a stag appears on a 20-rappen red value, a rabbit is depicted on a 30 r blue green and wild fowl on a 1.50-francs olive.

Another tiny European state, San Marino, has surcharged three of its recent stamps with extra values and the inscription "convegno filatelico 30 Novembre 1946" to mark a philatelic meeting held there. The extra values are 25 lire on 3 and 5 lire denominations and 50 lire on 10 l.

Murphy Submits Annual Report To Fire Officials

Fire Chief Declares Day of Waiting Is Over and Prevention Is Big Fireman's Job

"The day of waiting for a fire is past," Chief Joseph L. Murphy told the Board of Fire Commissioners, in submitting his detailed report for 1946, at the annual meeting of the board Tuesday night. "The work of fire fighting has been revolutionized," he said as he emphasized the important part played today by fire prevention work and the need of modern equipment to deal with ever increasing hazards.

His report showed that the department had responded to 560 calls during 1946. The fire loss for the year was placed at $64,965.37, which was an increase of $13,247.71 over 1945. There was one loss of life by fire during the year.

In reflecting his statistical report Chief Murphy said:

Chief Murphy's Report

Gentlemen: I have the honor of submitting for your Honorable Board's approval, the 38th annual report of the Fire Department.

Since the inception of fire service, the work of fire fighting has been revolutionized. When first organized and for many years thereafter, the work of the fire departments was the extinguishment of fires. This was all changed as fire service advanced. Leading fire chiefs and fire prevention engineers agreed that the prevention of fire was just as important as fire extinguishment. Consequently, the duties of fire departments were broadened. The day of just waiting for a fire is past.

Fire prevention plays a most important part in fire service. With the ever increasing hazards of today found in mercantile establishments, industrial plants, together with building construction, flammable oils and gases. To accomplish efficient work in controlling fire, it is essential that the firemen know the contents of the building, location of stairways, elevator shafts, skylights and gutters, and sprinkler shut-off in the case of a sprinkler risk. This knowledge is gained through building inspection by the uniform force.

Fire Fighting a Science

Fire fighting of today is in a true sense a science. With the advance in fire fighting technique it is very essential that fire fighting equipment be designed to cope with the ever increasing hazards. If it is necessary to modernize fire fighting technique to meet the increasing hazards, it is a so necessary that a fire department have modern equipment to control fire.

The city of Kingston has on order four new pieces of apparatus. One 85 foot aerial truck, one 65 foot aerial truck, one 750 gallon pumper and one 500 gallon pumper. The new equipment will replace the old and outmoded apparatus.

I wish to thank the Board of Fire Commissioners, the Honorable Mayor and the Common Council for their consideration in approving my recommendation for apparatus replacements.

The holocaust which swept the LaSalle in Chicago, the Canfield in Dubuque, and the Wirecuff in Atlanta should alert every city official to the necessity of requiring adequate means of escape from any building devoted to human occupancy.

I recommend to the Honorable Mayor and to the Honorable Common Council that a committee be appointed to draft a new building code, which should include requirements for safe and adequate means of egress in case of fire or accident.

May I again call to your Honorable Board's attention the urgent need of a new firehouse in the Second Ward, in addition to repairs and alterations to several of the fire houses. It may be possible that such improvements could come under capital improvements.

Summary of the Work Done

The department responded to 560 calls during the year 1946.

Insure a Bright Future
What kind of future is in store for you? One paved with security, and happiness in the work you are doing, or a lifetime of dissatisfaction? The answer will depend on the kind of job you choose when you are young. To insure a happy future, choose a field with room for advancement—one which will permit you to make full use of your talents.

Many later disappointments can be avoided by speaking beforehand to men and women in different fields. Jobs in practice are frequently quite different from the descriptions in textbooks, and it is well to know both the bad and good features before making your decision.

The Kingston Daily Freeman Reader Service booklet is packed with helpful job-getting information: how to choose a field, where the jobs are, writing the letter of application. Forty pages of valuable advice for men and women.

AGAIN THE JUNIOR SENIOR PROBLEM

A question asked almost more often than any other is the one: "When my son was half grown, his father died and soon after, my son dropped the 'Jr.' from his name. There was no real confusion between him and me until he married and now his wife lives in this medium-sized town and calls herself 'Mrs. John Smith.' This causes unending confusion, especially for the poor postman. Not long ago I decided to call myself 'Mrs. John Smith Sr.' hoping that would serve to end the difficulty. But others keep writing me without the 'Sr.' and nothing seems to have been gained. Have you any suggestion as to how I can get this new name of mine into the consciousness of friends?"

Instead of writing "Sr." it might be better to add "senior" to your visiting cards and use it on writing paper marked with your full name and address. You also may use it in a return address on the envelopes of your letters to indicate how you prefer to be written to. List yourself as "Mrs. John Smith Sr." in the telephone directory and on charge accounts at stores. In fact, add it wherever your name now appears as "Mrs. John Smith."

Good-Bye Kissing Games!
Dear Mrs. Post: I am 14, a freshman in high school and the majority of my friends are my age or a year or two older. At all the parties we've had up to now, we've played kissing games and some of us feel that these games are getting very silly. But we're at a loss to know what else to suggest that would be suitable for our ages. Mother said she had lots of fun at her parties in her younger days, but she can't remember just what games they played. Can you tell us something?

Answer: You are quite right to feel that the time has come for a change! Girls and boys before their teens do play "kissing" type of games at their parties, but not after that. Adult games that have come back into fashion are Twenty Questions, Charades, Clumps, etc. There are also a number of excellent quiz books. One by Will and Molly Donaldson is especially written for boys and girls. A one-page "Etiquette Quiz," written once for the column, will be sent to any one sending me a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y. Its questions, however, are too few for more than one party.

London Statue

London, Jan. 29 (AP)—The Times of London published today a letter from Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt voicing approval of the statue of President Roosevelt to be erected in Grosvenor Square, the design for which has been the subject of much debate.

Addressed to Lord Derby, president of the Roosevelt Memorial Committee, the letter voiced hope that the matter might "go forward without further controversy."

The model for the statue represents the late president in a standing position leaning on a cane—a pose that has been criticized by Rome who say that he is best remembered from likenesses showing him seated.

Mrs. Roosevelt, who already has accepted an invitation to unveil the memorial on April 12, 1948, wrote:

"The question as to whether he should stand or sit is one for you to decide," she continued, "but I realized from the outset that whatever you do will not please everybody, as there are people just as anxious to remember him standing as those who desire to recall him sitting."

"I, of course, have not seen the present model in Sir William Reid Dick's studio, but I appreciate it is impossible to judge the statue by the small print which was put out by your committee to indicate to the public that it would be a standing statue."

"Mr. Winant (John G.), however, has seen the model and tells me it is a striking likeness of my husband in a characteristic pose and portrayed with great dignity. It has satisfied him as a suitable and worthy memorial."

"I understand six months work has already been done on it and the whole project has been approved by your Royal Fine Arts Commission. For my part I am content with the present standing statue and I cannot but think it would be wise to let the matter go forward without further controversy."

Dewey Wants State Veterans to Get Quick Bonus Cash

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 29 (AP)—Governor Dewey wants the present generation of New York residents to pay the proposed $400,000,000 state bonus for World War 2 veterans and to start paying it next January.

"We have no right to make our children or our grandchildren pay for the bonus," the governor said last night at the 28th annual New York State American Legion dinner in honor of the 67 war veterans serving in the legislature. "We should be prepared to pay for it and pay for it now and get it over with," Dewey declared. A proposed $400,000,000 bond issue to finance the bonus was approved unanimously by the 1946 legislature. The present legislative session is expected to follow suit. The proposal then will be submitted to a referendum at the general election next November.

Under the plan, veterans who served in continental United States for 60 days or less would receive $50; those who served in the United States more than 60 days would get $150, and all those who served outside the country would be given $250.

to the Kingston Board of Education that you stand behind the board in its efforts to improve a condition that is sadly in need of improvement?"

Alderman Roosa observed that while he favored a justifiable wage or salary, he didn't quite understand the last paragraph of the letter as quoted above. Alderman Oulton noted that action taken authorizing salary increases automatically meant an increase in taxes and was a matter of interest to taxpayers.

The communication was referred to the laws and rules committee, of which Peter F. Simpson is chairman, other members being James J. Carroll, Frank Oulton, John J. Schwenk and Paul A. Zucca.

Minority Report on Equipment Purchase
Following is the minority report presented by Alderman Victor Roth on the proposition to appropriate $166,703.74 for purchase of equipment, as recommended by the Mayor of the City of Kingston, the Hon. William F. Edelmut, recommended to the Common Council that the sum of $166,703.74 be appropriated for the purchase of equipment, machinery and structures for the Board of Public Works. It was felt that more information was required than had been furnished in order to vote intelligently upon the request, and to secure such information representatives of the Common Council have met with the Board of Public Works so as to ascertain unit costs of the items requested and to consider the need of the items requested.

It is my opinion after such investigation that the present request should be disapproved. My reasons for recommending such disapproval are as follows:

1. The present costs seem to be excessive in many instances. Before obligating our city to pay such a large amount, the city authorities should endeavor to secure the items that are needed at a lower cost either by endeavoring to purchase them from army surplus or through the Department of Purchase of the State of New York, who we are informed now offer such service to municipalities.

2. Costs are now at a much higher level than at any time in the past. We may reasonably anticipate that the present high level will not prevail for more than a limited period. Unless there is an immediate compelling necessity, the city should not purchase such equipment and machinery as can be deferred for a time.

3. Many of the items requested are not now necessary. For example, of the amount sought $33,410 is to be spent for two Wal-lers snow plow trucks, the type used for heavier snows. We are informed that these trucks are to augment present equipment and are not intended to replace existing equipment. The City has three of these trucks and in the year of 1946 ordered two more from moneys previously appropriated. These two trucks have not yet been delivered. The City has not yet had experience in operating five trucks in heavy snows. It may be that five trucks will not prove adequate; however, this should be shown before we spend over $33,000 for two more trucks to bring the total owned by the city to seven.

Another example of an item of questionable necessity are the three 40 by 60 Quonset buildings for the city parks. This calls for an expenditure of $21,570.

Every alderman is in favor of appropriating all the moneys required for the Board of Public Works to operate efficiently. However, we must realize that our revenues are limited and appropriations must be justified by their necessity.

I therefore recommend that $166,703.74 be not appropriated, but only such an amount as will provide for the immediate compelling needs of the Board of Public Works.

Denies Yugoslav Charge
London, Jan. 29 (AP)—An American spokesman rejected today as "entirely untrue" a Yugoslav charge that the United States in its dealings with Austria, had violated the Paris agreement of 1946 on German reparations. Dr. Mladen Ivekovic, Yugoslav spokesman, told the deputies of the four-power Foreign Ministers' Council yesterday that "the U. S. A. abandoned their claims to German assets (in Austria) in favor of the Austrian government." This, he declared, was a flagrant violation of the agreement because the agreement permitted allies to relinquish such claims only in favor of other allies. "The United States," commented the American spokesman, "announced last July that it did not intend to exact reparations from Austria. At the time it transferred certain German assets to the trusteeship of the Austrian government. But it did so without prejudice to any nation's reparations rights. The transfer of this German property was necessary so that certain industries could continue to function."

Experts Discuss Uses of Sprays

fruit areas and has reduced the number of other pollinating insects. In some areas almost to the vanishing point. In the past two years some whole apples have been completely depopulated, he said, and beekeepers have also had to remove poison-d pollen from combs.

Dr. Ellsworth H. Wheeler of the Division of Entomology, at the Geneva Experiment Station reported that D.D.T. will provide excellent commercial control of oriental fruit moth at little additional expense. For the past 20 or 30 years, in the absence of an effective insecticide, growers have relied on natural control by the release of a parasite, but uncertainties of season and weather, which affect this control have resulted in too many wormy apples, especially in 1945, he said.

Four D.D.T. Applications
Four applications of D.D.T. at three-week intervals beginning about the middle of June will provide almost perfect control of the fruit moth, Dr. Wheeler said, and two or even one application properly timed with respect to the wormy peach which appears perfect when packed. He pointed out that many problems still must be settled with regard to exact timing to prevent excessive residues without reducing control.

Pear psylla may be controlled most effectively by applying sprays in spring before blossoms buds open or begin to show green tissue, Donald W. Hamilton of the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine in Albany to growers, but in seasons when conditions are favorable for psylla development such sprays should be supplemented with summer applications. A 3 per cent dormant spray given in spring, applied just before buds show green tissue but after most eggs have been laid, are effective. Most effective spray for control of codling moth is DDT at one-half to one pound actual toxant, he said. Oil should not be used with or within 10 days after DDT spray applications.

Entomologist Speaks
Prof. M. B. Hoffman of the Department of Entomology and Plant Quarantine pointed out that previous crop amount, of bloom, conditions affecting pollination, supply of moisture, nitrogen, and other food reserves are important in determining thinning necessary for development of satisfactory size and quality in fruit. He discussed expected mental results in thinning with various sprays. DN material have given fairly consistent and satisfactory results with heavy setting varieties of apples, such as Wealthy, Baldwin, Golden Delicious, Rome Beauty and Yellow Newton, he said, but have been fairly erratic on other varieties. Naphthalene acetic acid and its sodium salt, now commonly used as harvest sprays to delay drop, have produced a thinning effect when applied during or following bloom by reducing fruit setting of apples. He said DN material is only have been effective and consistent so far in reducing the set on peaches.

Washington, Jan. 29 (AP)—The Bureau of Mines said today 974 men were killed in U. S. coal-mining operations last year, a record low and the fourth consecutive annual decrease. A bureau report estimated the 1946 loss of life at 1.64 per million tons of coal, the lowest in the statistical series starting in 1874.

Negro Is Charged With Killing Three

Yadkinville, N. C., Jan. 29 (AP)—A 30-year-old Negro was lodged in jail today on a charge of hurling his three young daughters to their deaths in a well at their tenant farm home.

The Negro, Gene Scales, according to an account given sheriff's deputies by his wife, Ruth Louise, suddenly shouted Monday night that "Jesus says we got to go" then cast the children into the well.

Scales followed them in, the wife said, and could be heard praying, shouting and singing. He later pulled himself out.

The victims were Dorothy 8, Grace 6, and Alice 2.

Ickes Is Irked By Report About Taking Filing Cases

Washington, Jan. 29 (AP)—Harold L. Ickes squared away today for battle with an "unidentified source" in the week's second test of whether "you can't take it with you" holds good for retiring cabinet members.

Irked by a report that he removed 50 filing cases of papers from the Interior Department files when he quit during a row with President Truman last February 13, Ickes declared:

"I do not intend to permit anyone to insinuate (stick) his pro-hocis (nose) into affairs that are strictly personal and private."

The report about the files was passed along to newsmen by an Interior Department official who demanded anonymity.

Ickes noted in a formal statement yesterday that his case thus differs from that of Henry Morgenthau, Jr., former secretary of the treasury, who has been asked to return a "major part" of his 80,000,000 word diary to government files.

The request was made by Secretary Snyder, Morgenthau's successor.

"At least Secretary Snyder, of whom I have spoken disparagingly on more than one occasion, has had the manliness to do his own dirty work," the Ickes statement said.

Morgenthau has agreed that if he has "something" Mr. Snyder wants and needs among the 900 volumes of his diary, he will give it to the treasury.

made his first bid for the governorship and lost to Governor Herbert H. Lehman by 64,000 votes.

Bontecou said his proposal was "a completely voluntary expression of my own convictions" and added that he had not consulted administration leaders before introducing it.

James C. Hagerty, Dewey's executive assistant, told reporters Bontecou had not talked with the governor about it.

Other high administrative sources have indicated that no restrictive labor legislation will be enacted in New York.

Dewey, in his annual message to the legislature early this month, asserted that "we lead the nation in the maintenance of peaceful industrial relations."

Assemblyman Ernest I. Hatfield, also a Dutchess county Republican, said he would introduce the bill in the larger house.

Leo Isaacson, legislative representative of the American Labor party, said "the American people have rejected the theory that labor is a commodity" and that Bontecou would "revive that theory and turn the clock back to the 18th century."

Bontecou declared that the bill would "permit the people of the state to register their opinions" on what he called "one of the most controversial issues of the present time."

Durocher Breaks Silence, Picks on Judge as Target

Says He and Laraine Day Intend to Remain Man and Wife Forever

Los Angeles, Jan. 29 (AP)—Leo Durocher, who has done a lot of talking back to umpires as boss of the Brooklyn Dodgers, has picked a new target—the judge who is threatening to set aside the California divorce he granted last week to Movie Actress Laraine Day.

Durocher married Miss Day in El Paso, Tex., shortly after she obtained a divorce from her first husband, a Mexican, in Mexico.

Superior Judge George A. Dockweiler, who a day earlier dissolved Miss Day's marriage to J. Ray Hendricks, airport executive, has summoned her before him next Tuesday to show why he should not rescind the decree.

The loquacious Leo, who all along has been saying "no comment," finally issued a statement. It was about Judge Dockweiler. He said the judge released to the public the transcript of a conference in his chambers with Laraine and Leo when they flew back from El Paso.

Leo didn't stop there. He said he and Laraine were "legally man and wife and we intend to remain so as long as we live."

"It is a disgraceful situation," the Durocher communique continued, "when a supposedly holier-than-thou jurist can suggest—as he did to my wife and myself—that we annul our marriage and her divorce, and that the court would overlook our living in sin until her interlocutory decree becomes permanent. This, he explained, would be legally permissible."

Judge Dockweiler said this of the boss of "Dem Bums."

"Mr. Durocher isn't a party to the proceedings. He is at liberty to entertain any opinion he desires regarding my ability. I don't propose to engage in any discussion with him on the proprieties of the matter now pending. He's an interloper."

"I did not release the transcript to the press, but it was in no way private or privileged. Miss Day's lawyer started off with: 'This is for the record, judge.'"

Maroon Five Opens Second Half of DUSO Race Friday at Port

Local Club Booked For Home Contest Next Tuesday Night

Kingston Downed Tri-State Team 1st Loop Game of Season, 64-21; Liberty to Play Newburgh

DUSO League basketball teams swung back into action Friday night in the opening games of the second half. Kingston High travels to Port Jervis, Monticello plays at Middletown and Liberty journeys to Newburgh.

Home Next Tuesday
Kingston's next home tilt on the basketball boards will be played Tuesday night, February 4, with Poughkeepsie High School furnishing the opposition. The following Friday the Maroons travel to Monticello.

With Liberty holding the first half leading on the strength of five straight loop conquests the pressure is strictly on the league's other two strongest clubs—Kingston and Middletown. Both are equal to the task of coming through with the title in this second and final round.

Kingston, which opened the season strong with a 64-21 victory over a weak Port club, finished the first half with a 3-2 record. The losses were charged up at the hands of Liberty and the Middies. Whether the second round will be a repeat performance of the initial half remains to be seen but it is expected that the forces of G. Warren Kink will be a tougher foe in every game for the balance of the season.

The Maroon's 72 to 50 victory over Newburgh last week may be an indication of what other loop clubs are to expect during the second half. Led by the illustrious Ed Weaver, the loop's chief scorer during the first half, the Klusmen will be out to uphold their supremacy in DUSO basketball circles.

Kingston may still get a crack at the crown if it comes through with a victory over the invading Liberty Redskins when they come into municipal stadium Tuesday night, February 11. A win in that tilt may well determine the second half champion.

MARON FIVE 2
Big Weaver, long-regarded by league experts as the best all-around center in the circuit, will display his scoring prowess in the Newburgh encounter and proceeded to establish a new loop scoring record with his 37 markers. Weaver's big night also enabled him to pass Don Huffmire of Liberty for scoring honors with 108 points. Huffmire has collected 106 during the first half.

10 Top Scorers
Two Kingston players, Weaver and Mike Ruzzo, are included in the first 10 scorers of the loop according to statistics compiled by Irwin J. Thomas, Freeman sports editor. The list follows:

Virgilio Here February 6

Poughkeepsie's Curmino Virgilio, weighing in for the match he won from Cuba's pantomime champion, Alfredo Pestro, with Inspector Summy Crocetti of the Adirondack A.A.U. and Johnny Celan, professional, observing, will be back at the Kingston Municipal Auditorium, Thursday night, February 6, to meet Frankie Biffico from Buffalo, in one of the featured bouts on B'nai B'rith's card.

The little fellow who is considered as the uncrowned bantam champion of the Hudson valley, hopes to polish off the Niagara district title-holder via the same route he finished Pestro, whom he knocked out in the first round.

Celan, who is matched with Jake La Motta in Madison Square Garden for March 7, regards Virgilio as one of the hardest hitting bantamweights he's ever seen. "The kid has plenty of dynamite, he ought to do okay as a pro," Celan said.

Three other Buffalo boxers, campaigning under the direction of Tommy Paul, former N.B.A. featherweight champion, will be on B'nai B'rith's ring program February 6—Connie Thies, Oliver Phillips and Billy Long.

Thies, who won a unanimous decision over the New York sensation, Ike Jenkins, last night, will box Jimmy Marlo, Albany welterweight, who formerly held the national title.

Phillips is paired with Mike Sallie, 143, Schenectady, who recently lost a close decision to Tony Barone.

Billy Long will meet Jimmy Canale of Albany, a heavyweight considered in the same class with Jimmy Rouse, now a pro. The former colored marine, who won a tournament at Pearl Harbor, and is an all-around athlete bids fair to becoming a great prospect in the ring sports, experts opine.

There will be seven bouts in all. Reservations for ringside seats are being accepted at B'nai B'rith club on Wall street, phone 5018.

The dairymen peeled off games of 1024, 1043 and 1017 in piling up the huge 3084 team series. Scott of Middletown pinched a 215 and 596. Clark's 217 single was high for the Eagles.

BOWLING

Independent League

The high-riding Vogel Dairy combine moved into second place in the Independent League standings Monday night after taking two games from Wilbur Coal while the Stone Ridge Firemen were taking three on the chin from Cole's Market. Vogels now trail the first place Callanians by three and one half games and hold a slim one game edge over Stone Ridge.

Don Vogel led the assault on Wilbur Monday with a 592 string on healthy scores of 203-189-200. Leo "Red" Everitt banged a 559 and Charlie Grunwald poured out a 205 and 551. Ward DuBois posted a 212 and 568 for Wilbur.

The three straight for Coles kept that club in fourth place one game ahead of Martin's Market. Parslow smashed a brilliant 234 single, 587 for Coles. Schutzel's 543, 504 paced Stone Ridge in a losing cause.

Dawkins Hits 613

Led by Jack Dawkins' 224 single and 613 three-timer Martins kept on the trail of Coles by taking three straight from Beichters. Dawkins opened with 188 and came back to fire 224 and 201 for his 613. Jim Roe followed with 235 and 586. Jack Hartman and Roland Post were next with 544 and 549. E. J. Adams wound up the offensive with a 535 series. Henry's 221 topped Beichters.

The Callanian-Jump match was postponed until a later date.

Ben Rhymer Buys Bridge Cruiser

Owner Not Certain About The New Cruiser

Ben Rhymer, Kingston's nationally famous outboard motor boat driver and midget racing car owner has purchased a luxurious 40-foot, double cabin bridge Chris Craft bridge cruiser.

The superb model, the first of its type delivered in this area in the postwar period, is now docked at the Rhymer warehouse on the Rondout water front.

The cruiser, which is considered the last thing in modern construction details at $19,000 with all accessories.

The sleek multi-colored craft is 40 feet long with a 32 foot beam. Mr. Rhymer who earned early fame as an outboard motor boat pilot in the annual Albany to New York marathon and later as a midget auto racer describes the redistribution drive motors it can attain a maximum speed of 23 miles per hour.

Carefully selected materials are used in every section of the cruiser, Mr. Rhymer says. All models are self water equipped propulsion groups and udders are manganese bronze even the screws and bolts used through out are brass and bronze. The main frames, intermediate side frames, bottom frames, auxiliary bottom frames are structurally strong and sturdy. All bottoms are double planked and every hull-side is battened.

The upholstery berths and curtains that go into the cruiser are custom tailored by Chris Craft for each individual type of design. Marine hardware is also designed to match the motif of each type of boat. And in almost every detail of construction, from the laying of the keel to the final finish, outstanding processes are used.

The Rhymer cruiser stands 11 feet 3 inches and displaces 5229 cubic feet. The standard model features everything desired in a Special equipment includes searchlights, fish cabinets, dishes, curtains on windows, compasses, special electrical equipment and radios are built-in. Lux line lighting equipment.

The 40 foot model has a guest room, stateroom, dinette, sun deck, sink, an alcohol stove with a number of burners, medicine cabinet, life preserver and practically everything desired for a comfortable trip or week end cruise.

"I have been identified with outboard motors and craft of all types for many years," Mr. Rhymer said, "but this new model is the finest thing in Chris Craft history. You have to see the boat to appreciate the equipment it carries."

Mr. Rhymer said he was not certain about the future of the new cruiser. "I may keep it for a few long cruises this summer, then again I may sell it. It's a beauty the last word in modern boating."

Cross-Channel Tunnel Idea Revives Again

London, Jan. 29 (AP)—The dream of express trains racing from London to Paris and from the English Channel—an idea that has been revived at intervals since it was first conceived in 1856—was revived officially today.

An invitation from Christopher Shawcross, Laborite M. P. a dinner was held last night at the House of Commons to form an all-party committee to study the question of a 31-mile cross channel tunnel in the light of new engineering devices and fresh political and economic factors.

Attending the dinner were directors of the Channel Tunnel Company interested members of Parliament and representatives of the U. S. atomic energy policy when the United Nations Security Council resumes international disarmament discussions next week. These sources said they expected the American representative to the United Nations to give a sharper definition of U. S. ideas on how the Council should proceed with atomic control and disarmament.

Austin to Be D-finite

Lake Success, N. Y. Jan 29 (AP)—Authoritative sources said today Warren R. Austin probably would make a major pronouncement on U. S. atomic arms policy when the United Nations Security Council resumes international disarmament discussions next week. These sources said they expected the American representative to the United Nations to give a sharper definition of U. S. ideas on how the Council should proceed with atomic control and disarmament.

Will Consider Secrecy

Washington, Jan. 29 (AP)—Senators who heard reports of "serious breaches" in atomic energy security decided today to hold secret sessions before voting on the nomination of six men to fill this country's top atomic jobs. Chairman Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) of the Senate Atomic Energy committee, told reporters a vote is unlikely before next week although he hoped to wind up public hearings today. The security leaks were reported by David E. Lilienthal, President Truman's choice for chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission. The biggest breach, Lilienthal conceded under questioning by Senator McMahon

Fear for Kidnaped Banker

Jerusalem Jan. 29 (AP)—Palestine police using every resource in their search for a kidnaped British banker, expressed increasing fear today that he might have been fatally injured when Jewish underground members snatched him from his home. Sunday night is a holiday for a condemned member of the Irgun Zvai Leumi. Another abducted British Judge Ralph Windham was released unharmed last night in the Tel Aviv suburb of Ramat Gan. Reports circulated that the banker, H. A. I. Collins, a former British army officer had been freed at the same time, but police after a full day of checking were unable to confirm these rumors.

There were about 227,000 miles of railroad in the United States in 1945.
